North Carolina Marriage License Information

Marriage licenses are issued at the Register of Deeds office. In Camden County, the office location is in the Old Courthouse Building at the back door handicap entrance.

In order for a man and a woman to purchase a marriage license in North Carolina, they must be of legal age, and if previously married, then legally divorced. They must present a valid driver's license or military ID and social security card or a payroll stub with the social security number on it. If either party has been divorced within the prior 12 months, then a copy of the diverse papers are required.

The minimum age is 16. All applicants must show proof of age. Anyone under 21 must present a copy of their birth certificate. Anyone under the age of 18 will need parental permission. In the case of divorced or separated parents, the parent with custody must accompany the person applying for the license and the parent must show proper identification and proof of custody in order to sign permission.

Marriage license can be issued in any county in North Carolina and the marriage be performed in any other county in North Carolina. Couples take responsibility for the legality of their own marriage and their officiating officer (ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by a church, federally or state recognized Indian nation or tribe, magistrate, etc.) has ten days to return the license to the issuing county.

After the issuing Register of Deeds office has recorded the marriage license, the couple can request a certified copy. Changes in legal documents such as Social Security records and insurance records require a certified copy.

The fee for purchasing marriage license is $50.00
 The fee for a certified copy of the marriage license is $10.00

Camden County Board of Commissioners adopted a Resolution Declaring April 17-30, 2004
As Camden County Spring 2004 Litter Sweep
Roadside Cleanup

To emphasize the importance of clean roads and a clean environment, the Commissioners adopted a resolution naming April 17-30 as SPRING "LITTER SWEEP" ROAD SIDE CLEANUP in Camden County.

Anyone interested in sprucing up your community and showing pride in North Carolina, can organize volunteers from your church, club, neighborhood, family, place of work, school, local government, etc. Decide on a date and time to do your cleanup, and choose a state road you would like to clean. You may even have a road in mind already. For example, it may be a road in your immediate neighborhood, a road you travel to work, the road in front of your church; any state road you think should be cleaner and would make you prouder of your community.

It is important to review safety procedures and each person's role in the cleanup. Please call Kim Harris with the number of volunteers on your team so she can order cleaning supplies. Win a prize (1st $250, 2nd $100 and 3rd $50) for the most unusual litter found on the roadside.

Deadline for calling with volunteer information is 12 noon, April 15, 2004. Visit the web site <http://www.ncdot.org/~littersweep> for forms or pick up forms at the Camden County Code Office.

For information and your "LITTER SWEEP" packet please call Kim Harris, Camden County Code Enforcement Officer at 252-338-1919 x 237.

Soil Testing

Fertilizing plants without knowing the soil pH and fertility level is like driving a car in a dense fog - you are never sure where you are. Without knowing the existing fertility level, applications of lime and fertilizer are likely to be too high or too low for optimum plant growth.

Soil testing is a valuable tool to help you manage the mineral nutrition of the soil. It can help avoid overfertilization, thus preventing pollution of our water supplies. Excess nutrients applied but not used by plants will most likely be leached into groundwater.

A soil test is the only reliable method to determine the soil pH. Most soils in North Carolina are acidic. The pH level affects the availability of existing nutrients in the soil as well as those applied as fertilizer. A slightly acidic soil is generally considered ideal for most plants in North Carolina.

You can test the soil yourself by purchasing an inexpensive soil test kit from a local garden center or hardware store. Unfortunately, these tests are not very reliable. Even if they give you an accurate pH reading, they do not provide information on the amount of lime needed.

Consistently reliable results can only be obtained by submitting samples to a soil-testing laboratory. The North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Service's Agronomic Division in Raleigh will analyze your soil samples free of charge. Forms and boxes are available from your county Cooperative Extension center.

The accuracy of the report depends on the quality of the sample you submit. Collect your samples with stainless steel or chrome-plated tools. Using brass, bronze or galvanized materials could contaminate your sample with copper or zinc. The bucket to put the sample in should be clean and made of plastics. Even small amounts of residual lime or fertilizer can affect the test results.

Scrape away leaves, mulch and other debris from the soil surface. Dig a hole to the appropriate depth, then shave a 1-inch-thick slice from the edge of the hole and dump it in the bucket. Sample to the depth the soil has been, or will be, tilled. For established lawns, collect samples 4 inches deep. For vegetable gardens and flowerbeds, take samples 6 to 8 inches deep, and for trees and shrubs sample to a depth of 6 to 10 inches. Try to avoid areas where fertilizer has been recently applied. Repeat this procedure in six to eight spots for each area to be tested.

Mix these subsamples together to obtain one composite sample. Remove large pieces of roots, leaves, rocks and other debris. Place about a pint of the composite sample in the soil-testing box.

Enter your name, address and three-digit code. Take the sample and completed information sheet to your county Cooperative Extension center or directly to the lab. Information on test results and suggested lime and fertilizer application rates will be sent in the mail. If you have further questions regarding soil testing please contact the Camden County Extension Office at 338-1919.

Cream-Cheese-Frosted Cinnamon Rolls

<http://houseandhome.msn.com>

Ingredients

- 1 16-ounce loaf
frozen sweet-roll
dough or frozen
white-bread dough,
thawed
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine,
softened
- 3 tablespoons
granulated sugar
- 3 tablespoons brown
sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1/2 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, softened
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 cups sifted powdered sugar
- 2 - 3 teaspoons milk

Directions

1. Grease a 9x1-1/2-inch round baking pan; set aside. Roll sweet-roll or bread dough into a 12x8-inch rectangle on a lightly-floured surface. Spread the 1/4 cup butter or margarine evenly over dough.
2. Stir together granulated sugar, brown sugar, and cinnamon in a small bowl. Sprinkle sugar mixture evenly over dough. Roll up dough rectangle into a spiral, starting from a short side; prick dough to seal seam. Slice into 8 equal pieces. Place sides in a prepared pan.
3. Cover and let dough rise until nearly double in size (30 to 45 minutes). Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Bake in the preheated oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until golden.
4. Remove rolls from oven. Invert rolls onto a wire rack. Invert again onto a serving platter. In a small mixing bowl, place cream cheese, the 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, and the vanilla. Beat with an electric mixer on medium speed until light and fluffy, scraping sides of bowl as necessary. Gradually beat powdered sugar. Beat in enough milk (2 to 3 teaspoons) to make frosting of spreading consistency. Spread cream cheese frosting atop each hot roll so frosting flows over edges. Serve warm. Makes 8 rolls.

Make-ahead tip: Prepare and bake cinnamon rolls as directed. Do not frost. Place cooled rolls into a freezer container or sealed plastic bag; freeze up to 3 months. Before serving, preheat oven to 300 degrees F. Wrap the frozen cinnamon roll in foil and bake about 25 minutes or until warm. Frost hot rolls with cream cheese frosting as directed.
